WOODROW WILSON TO U. N. C. GRADUATES

The Reawakening of Public Conscience And Relation Intelligent Men Are to Bear to This Movement in Politics And Public Affairs, His Subject.

Special to Telegram.

Chapel Hill, May 30.—Governor Woodrow Wilson addressed the graduating class of University of North Carolina today and received the degree of LL. D. from the University. Thirty-five hundred people crowded Memorial Hall to hear the distinguished speaker. President Venable introduced Gov. Wilson as a strong and many-sided man, whose unexpected entrance into politics had gladdened and encouraged a confused people. The great audience rose and cheered for several minutes as Gov. Wilson acknowledged his introduction.

Degrees were conferred by Governor Kitchin upon the largest graduating class ever sent out by the University. An even 100 received the A. B. or B. S. degree, one the L. L. B., six P. G., 15 A. M., one M. S. degree. A Bible and A. B. diploma was presented to each of about forty members of the war classes who were present to receive them. Those who were not present will have a diploma and Bible sent them. Those who have died will be recorded as having received the degree.

Speech of Governor Wilson.

Governor Wilson presents a most engaging platform appearance, speaks easily and without undue oratorical effect, having rather the appearance of addressing a university class than a large audience. He spoke without manuscript and his speech bore every mark of the trained and accurate speaker perfectly at home in his subject and his environment. He felt at home at a college commencement, he said, for he had had occasion to attend many of them. But he is seldom called upon to make commencement addresses. He addressed himself from the start to the members of the graduating class asking the audience to bear with him in thus confining his remarks to so limited a portion of the assembly. The reawakening of the public conscience and the relation which intelligent and trained men are to bear to this new movement in politics and public affairs formed the central topic of Governor Wilson's speech. In the life history of a man we often speak of the time when a man comes to himself—when he finds himself. In the life time of a nation a similar moment occurs when a great change in policy takes place—when the nation finds itself. A man comes to himself when he begins to realize what relation he bears to the things around him, to the great mass of the external world which forms his environment. He retold Kipling's story of the great steel ship which made her maiden voyage on the great ocean. Finding herself on the high seas for the first time she reared back in dismay, her cables creaked, her small boats tugged at their cables, all about was antagonistic. Soon, however, she became used to the ocean's roughness, found herself, ceased to resist, and by a process of gradual adjustment, soon began to sail easily and majestically amidst the towering waves. She had found herself. The college graduate is likely to be confronted with the same problem. His first contact with the world will very likely cause him to oppose himself to it, to strain at his cables to oppose it. He goes out in many cases with a mass of theoretical knowledge which lacks adjustment to the world. It is true that a body let fall into a vacuum will observe regular and well-known acceleration of speed, but it is to be observed that the law holds good only as long as it is through a vacuum that the body is falling. If it falls through air-filled space resistance takes place and adjustments must be made. Very unlike a vacuum is this world of ours, it offers resistance on all sides, one must adjust oneself to the vast operative forces of the world to achieve greatest usefulness. Addressing himself to the graduates in front of him, he said, "The world will take you into its vast processes and digest you. The question is: Are you digestible? Will you sit well on the stomach of the world. (Laughter.) Will you be palatable?"

He warned the young men just about to enter the world of men and action against the aloofness which many educated men profess in the matter of public affairs and politics. To draw one's skirts righteously about one, cynically denounce politics as sordid and fit only for the lower elements of our citizenship is the part of the moral coward and not the part of men. Analyzing this feeling he ascribed the lack of interest in politics among educated men not to a loathing of the science itself so much as utter disgust with the system of politics which we have. As long as the more intelligent class of Americans wash their hands of public affairs leaving their administration to unscrupulous leaders of the masses there can be no hope of improvement.

Proceeding definitely to the message he had for the outgoing class he stated knights will assemble at the auditorium for the annual street parade. This promises to be one of the most magnificent parades, barring circuses, ever seen in the city, and, according to reports from other cities where the travelers have held sessions, the parade will surpass many circus parades. At 11 o'clock the knights will board special cars for Lindley Park where at 12:30 a luncheon will be served.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the knights of North and South Carolina will cross bats at Cone park. Each council has selected a nine with great care and one of the hardest fought amateur games ever played on the local diamond is predicted. Some ten thousand tickets for the game have been sold and if all who have tickets attend standing room will be at a premium. At the conclusion of the game the knights of the grip will purchase tickets and attend the league game between Greensboro and Winston.

DAILY GRIND IN MUNICIPAL COURT

The several cases which composed the docket of Municipal court were disposed of in short order at the session yesterday morning.

Walter Murray, a small negro boy, was the first defendant, being charged with the larceny of $3.50 from the cash drawer of the Grissom-Sykes Drug Company. The case was not pressed on the recommendation of the plaintiff.

The case against the Southern railway for blocking Sergeant street too long was continued until the regular session of court on Thursday morning.

Mike Susman was also bound over to tomorrow's court on the charge of vagrancy.

Frank James, who was tried during the session of Monday, was yesterday sentenced on a charge of assault and battery to three months of hard labor on the streets of the city.

Ed Clawson was also tried Monday and was yesterday sentenced to six months' labor on the streets on three charges.

LESLIE M. SHAW ORATOR AT MEREDITH COLLEGE YESTERDAY

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, May 30.—"Evolution in Matters Governmental" was the theme of a remarkable address delivered this morning by Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, former secretary of the United States Treasury in connection with the graduating exercises at Meredith College. The principle of initiative and referendum and recall came in for a severe drubbing as a craze for the hour that would pass as saner controlling factors made their impression on the governmental conditions. He treated at length fallacious methods of teaching and recording history making the contention that instead of the American colonies having actually whipped the English it was really a fight between the Tories and Whigs in England and when the Whigs won in the House of Parliament the appropriation for maintaining the war in America was cut off. He traced the evolution of the American government and emphasized a number of fads in governmental theory that at one time and another swayed public opinion and using this as an illustration, he argued the fallacy of initiative and referendum and recall as being subversive of good government.

There were seventeen full graduates with A. B. degree for Meredith and a number of special diplomas were awarded. They follow:

A. B. Degree: Lillian May Allen, Waynesville; Louella Ellington Arthur, Morehead City; Harriet Bonnie Bennett, Clinton; Emily Cornelia Boyd, Charlotte; Beulah Elaine Copple, Monroe; Viola Pearl Howard, Roseboro; Essie Dale Hunter, Holly Springs; Emily Toy Hunter, Wadesboro; Bessie Evans Lane, Clio; S. METHODISTS OF CITY SUBSCRIBE $10,000

Enter Enthusiastically Into Movement to Erect Assembly of M. E. Church, South, at Waynesville—Greensboro Second City to Take Full Amount Allowed.

Scheduled to hold a meeting in Winston-Salem and only at a late hour finding that conditions there were decidedly unfavorable for its success on last night, the promoters of the plan of establishing a chautauqua at Waynesville decided to remain in Greensboro instead and accordingly, fifty representative Methodist laymen gathered around the festive board in the McAdoo dining hall and soon created a spirit of genuine enthusiasm that quickly carried through the purpose of the meeting—the securing of a subscription of $10,000, to assist in building the assembly ground.

A committee, composed of Rev. George Stuart, the noted evangelist, of Cleveland, Tenn.; Jno. R. Pepper, of Memphis, Tenn., president of the Laymen's Missionary Movement of the M. E. Church, and Dr. Jas. Cannon, former president of Blackstone College, at Blackstone, Va., launched a brief but enthusiastic and successful campaign by an excellent talk from each. The purpose of their coming was to place before the people of Greensboro an opportunity to promote the proposition of the laymen's movement of the Southern Methodist church to establish an assembly ground at Waynesville.

The speakers briefly explained the purpose of the enterprise and outlined the entire plan. The chautauqua, when completed will furnish an excellent place for men of the church to go and send their families for a pleasant vacation amid pure surroundings and at a reasonable charge.

Stock in the undertaking to the value of $250,000 will be sold to Methodist laymen. Of this amount, $200,000 has already been subscribed.

The subscribers of no one city are allowed to take over $10,000 worth of stock, and as a result of the banquet last night Greensboro men subscribed the limit, Atlanta is the only other city so far visited that has subscribed the full amount allowed.

The work of improving the grounds has already started. A dam is now in the process of construction, which will soon form a lake that will cover 200 acres of land, extend 5 miles in length, and be 30 feet deep. An excellent driveway and an electric railway will encompass this lake. Numerous buildings will be erected, including a large assembly hall, a model Sunday school building for the gatherings of the young people, an immense auditorium, and a thoroughly up-to-date 100-room hotel. These buildings will be constructed as soon as the dam is completed.

Around the lake 1000 acres of land has been laid off by a landscape gardener into lots of 50x150 feet. These will be sold to people for summer cottages which will face the lake on all sides.

The success of the proposition seems assured. Waynesville is an ideal location for the chautauqua, and, situated high above the sea level, the beauty of its mountain scenes was declared by Dr. Stuart to far surpass the famed views in Switzerland. The plan is being accepted with eagerness throughout the ranks of Methodist laymen in the South. From the experience of similar places, the enterprise is even expected to pay a dividend of 10 per cent. Throughout the summer, conventions, lectures, assemblies, and all church gatherings will be held there, and, under the supervision of Dr. Cannon, who resigned from his work in Blackstone to become the head of this movement, with the assistance of a competent board of directors elected by the stockholders, Methodist laymen are looking forward to the early completion and able management of a much-needed and very valuable assembly ground. The plan is to open the assembly in 1912.

Mrs. S. J. Perry Dead in Atlanta.

Charlotte, May 30.—Major A. G. Brenizer received a telegram yesterday announcing the death of Mrs. S. J. Perry, at her home in Atlanta. Mrs. Perry was a sister of the late Mrs. Brenizer, having been before her marriage, Miss Julia Chase Gilmer, of Greensboro. Mrs. Perry was for some years a resident of Charlotte and was beloved by a wide circle of friends. She had been a semi-invalid for years. She was a member of the Presbyterian church, her membership formerly having been at the Second Presbyterian church, in this city. Her husband and her son, Mr. Will Perry, survive her; also her nieces and nephews, Mrs. R. A. Dunn, Mrs. W. L. Burroughs, Mrs. Gilmer and Addison.

Mrs. Dunn left last night to attend the funeral in Atlanta and to accompany the remains to Charlotte, where the interment will take place tomorrow.

Wilmington Negro Shot His Wife.

Wilmington, May 30.—William Stepien, colored, shot his wife this afternoon as she was on her way to the federal cemetery, killing her instantly. He then fired two bullets into his side, but wounds will probably not prove fatal.

HARRON WON GREAT RACE GOING NEAR 75 MILES HOUR

Forty Entries in Indianapolis Race, $40,000 in Prizes—Harron Won $10,000—Wolford Was Second And Brown Third in Race—85,000 People Present.

Special to Telegram.

Speedway, Indianapolis, Ind., May 30.—Ray Harron and his relief driver, Cyrus Pattaschke, drove their Marmon car to victory today in the five hundred mile race, thereby winning great fame and a small fortune. The time for the 500 miles was 6 hours, 41 minutes and 8 seconds; an average speed of 74.4 miles per hour.

Ralph Mulford, driving a Lozier, came second, beating by a few seconds David Bruce Brown, who drove a Fiat. Mulford's relief driver was John Tricotte. Joe Malson was David Bruce Brown's relief driver.

In the last few miles the drivers who captured the first three places were only a few seconds apart, Brown and Mulford alternating in second and third places.

Dawson in a Marmon finished fourth and Ralph DePalma in a Simplex finished fifth. The winning Marmon finished the race without any mechanical troubles. The only stop was to change tires. Two of the tires went through the race without being touched.

The first accident occurred less than an hour after the beginning of the race. The Amplex entry turned turtle on the backstretch and S. H. Dickson, the mechanic, was killed. Arthur W. Greiner, the driver, was seriously injured. The accident was caused by the blowing of a tire. Dave Lewis, mechanic of the Lozier car driven by Teddy Tetzlaff, had a leg broken when the car sustained a tire blowout in the 170th mile. Tetzlaff, who was driving, was uninjured.

The Race at a Glance.

Forty cars started in the race of 500 miles; the length of the track being 2 1/2 miles and 200 laps required to finish. The total prizes amounted to $40,000. The winner of the race got $10,000. The attendance at the race track was 85,000 persons.

Others Injured.

Others who received injuries during the race were Harry Knight, driver Westcott, bruised and internal injuries feared; J. T. Glover, mechanic Wescott, serious abdominal injuries; C. L. Anderson, mechanic Case car, badly bruised; Teddy Tetzlaff, badly bruised.

GREENSBORO FLYS COLORS OF COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS

Already Decorations Are Going up in Honor of Knights of Grip--Hundreds Will Come Friday And Saturday--Fine Program Prepared.

Plans are rapidly maturing for the meeting of the Great Council of the Carolinas, United Commercial Travelers, the opening session of which will be held in the opera house on Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The traveling men will begin arriving tomorrow evening, but the majority of the delegates will arrive on Friday. Friday will be taken up with the business sessions and Saturday will be given over wholly to pleasure. Between five hundred and a thousand members of the order in the Carolinas are expected to be in Greensboro to attend the sessions and partake of the pleasures that have been prepared in anticipation of their coming.

The session in the opera house Friday morning will be open to the public. Following a musical selection by the Charlotte Drum Corps and the invocation by Rev. C. E. Hodgkin the address of welcome will be delivered by Mayor Thomas J. Murphy. The response will be by E. Van Schaack, of Columbia, S. C.

The city hall building has already put on a gala dress for the occasion, workmen being busy yesterday artistically placing bunting of the colors of the traveling men's order at every point of vantage on the front of the big building. A large number of the merchants of the city will also decorate their stores in the U. C. T. colors and a number of banners will be stretched across the street extending a welcome to all visitors. The Chamber of Commerce will also have a part in the decorations and the officers of that organization will spare no effort to make the knights of the grip feel perfectly at home while in the city.

As stated above the business sessions will be held on Friday and Saturday will be given over to pleasure. Following the public session in the opera house Friday morning a business session will be held in the council chamber. There will also be business sessions in the afternoon and at night. During the first business session the visiting ladies will be given an automobile drive over the city and during the afternoon there will be a reception for the ladies at the M. & M. Club. Friday evening from 9 to 12 o'clock a dance will be given in Neese's hall.

decided that a city smaller than Little plished something in the nature of a miracle in doing so. There is room in Charlotte to entertain the reunion, and Mecklenburg county has the requisite population, so it has been suggested that the reunion be invited to Charlotte in 1913.

HITCHCOCK AND THE POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT.

Few of the newspapers of the country have very great regard for Postmaster General Hitchcock, and there are good reasons for the attitude of the newspapers in this case. It must be admitted that Mr. Hitchcock as a politician is not a figure to command the admiration of the country's best citizens, and he has been guilty of doing a number of things which the best element of the country's people could not approve of; but Mr.
Hitchcock is evidently a business man of ability. He has been successful in the application of business methods to the conduct of his department, and these methods have been effective in wiping out the postal deficit and in creating a surplus to the credit of the Postoffice Department. Mr. Hitchcock is being given due credit for what he has accomplished by the newspapers of the country, despite their aversion to some of the methods and actions of the Postmaster General. This shows that the newspapers are disposed to give credit where credit is deserved. The newspapers likewise, are doubtless greatly pleased to be able to announce that the affairs of the Postoffice Department are in better condition and that an effort is being made to conduct the business of the great branch of the government service according to the successful rules known among business men.

"The Washington Post, in referring to improved conditions in the Department, makes a plea for one-cent postage and expresses the opinion that it can now be established without creating a postal deficit. The Post says:

"For the first time in 30 years, according to Postoffice Department figures, the Postoffice Department is self-sustaining, and Postmaster-General
Hitchcock has returned to the Treasury $3,000,000 that had been set aside from the public funds to defray the expenses of the department for the current year.
The department has a surplus of $1,000,- 000, gained from its own earnings, and a handsome surplus is looked for at the end of the fiscal year.

"The postal deficit at the end of the last fiscal year was $17,500,000. To change this into a surplus is a remarkable piece of executive and administrative work, of which President Taft and Postmaster-General Hitchcock have reason to be proud. It is not a promise, but a performance, and as such it puts all other Government experts in economy and efficiency upon their mettle.

"Now that the postal service is paying its own way, why should not 1-cent postage be introduced? The department makes money on first-class mail carriage, and the immense increase of business following 1-cent postage would go far to keep first-class carriage profitable.
At any rate, the deficit would be insignificant in comparison with the benefits derived by the public.

"Postmaster-General Hitchcock has already earned enduring credit for his administration of his department, but it would be a crowning achievement if 1-cent postage could be established during his incumbency. At the rate he is now saving, this great improvement could be made during this administration without causing a deficit."

THE WOMEN AUTOISTS OF DETROIT.

It is alleged that the women of Detroit are the most enthusiastic motorists to be found in that city. They are to be found in large numbers, too, it is said; one-third of the machines in the city being owned by women. Not only so, but the women of Detroit run their own machines and drive six-cylinder cars with the ease displayed by women of other cities in handling electric broughams.

The women of Detroit have learned other things, also, in connection with automobiling. They drive husbands to their offices in the morning and call for them and take them home in the afternoon. The women of Detroit are wise.
By this plan they are enabled to keep tab on their husbands to a large extent, to make certain that they are prompt to arrive for dinner, and this plan likewise makes it more difficult for the men to get away from home in the evening, unless they ask their wives to drive them to the theatres.

It appears that the women of Detroit have turned the automobile craze to practical profit; and as their husbands doubtless have to bear the expense, as they would have to do if the men owned the machines, this condition of affairs must prove exceedingly delightful for the women of the Michigan city.

Locusts Half a Century Ago.

W. E. Dixon, of Oregon, formerly coroner of the county, dropped in to see us Saturday. Mr. Dixon says there are quite a number of the 17-year locusts in his neighborhood, but not so many as there were in 1860. He declares that in that year he was on the jury while court was in session at Wentworth with Judge Cloud presiding the locusts infested the trees near the court house and made so much noise in the afternoons that the witnesses could not be heard when they were giving in their testimony and that day after Judge Cloud had to order a recess taken in the afternoons and reconvened court at night and had sessions after supper, lasting until 11 or 12 o'clock.

Mr. Dixon says he distinctly remembers all of this because it was the first court he ever attended. He says that three times since then he has seen the 17-year locusts—in 1877, 1894, and 1911.

Odd Items of Interest

Among the Japanese the increase of stature is very perceptible, and the substitution of tepid and even cold water for the hot baths among many of the people is responsible for an increasing floridity of the complexion. Athletic development during the past 20 years has also added greater avoirdupois and a more generous diet is bringing its reward in an accumulation of muscle and tissue.

Russia has three different armies. In Europe her men are five years in the active army, thirteen in the reserve and five years in the second reserve. In Asia they are seven years on active service and six in the reserve. In Caucasasia they are only three in the active army and fifteen in the reserve.

It will probably startle a good many persons to find, says a medical publication, on the authority of a well-known statistician, that could the infants of a year be ranged in a line in cradles the cradles would extend round the globe.

The difference between rising at 5 and 7 o'clock in the morning for the space of 40 years—suppose a man to go to bed at the same hour at night—is nearly equivalent to the addition of 10 years to his life.

Is he sick?"

stepping steadily into the mahogany furnished office of Percy Piggsfoot, the originator and head perpetrator of the odorous cigar clipper trust.

Percy tossed the better two-thirds of a forty cent cigar into the cut glass cupsider and trembled visibly. Well he knew on whose trail the relentless slenths of the law were camping, but he determined to bear the blows with fortitude.

"The man higher up?" he inquired jeily.

"Yes!" hissed the detective, biting a chunk out of the back of a chair in unison to show that he meant business.

"Oh, very well," said Percy, touching a button and turning to a messenger as he said: "Call the office boy. Some men are here after him."

Advertising Talks

In one of the leading South-

In order that the people may

Household Hints

Treatment of Kitchen Floors.

The kitchen floor, which needs such constant scrubbing, often causes much trouble, as soap and water softens the wood and increases its tendency to splinter. If it is splintered very much it must be scraped smooth, and then with care it ought to do nicely.

Have the floor clean and smooth, the cracks filled (if a close-grained wood, it needs no filler), then rub in thoroughly crude oil or one of the special preparations that are manufactured for the purpose.

Oil slowly hardens and darkens a floor,
so that grease and stains do not sink into the wood. Never wax or varnish kitchen or bathroom floors. The slipperiness of the wax may cause a nasty fall,
and in any case it is a waste of money, for the water that has to be used in both kitchen and bathroom will ruin the looks of either wax or varnish. After the floors are once in good condition
it is not a difficult matter to keep them so.

Cloudy Marble Washstands.

To render these bright and new again, use a mixture composed of soapuds and ox-gall (each quarter of a pint) and an eighth of a pint of turpentine. Add sufficient fuller's earth to form a rather stiff paste. After dusting the marble, rub the surface thoroughly with the paste.

Leave a thick coating on for two nights, then wipe off, rinse with clean water and polish with soft cloths. Sometimes a second treatment will be found necessary.

The recipe is equally good for marble chimney-pieces. Discolored marble will often yield to a rubbing with a paste of powdered pumice stone and powdered chalk in equal quantities mixed with powdered soda the weight of both the other ingredients put together. Sift through a sieve and mix with water.

The Shine on Serge.

Skirts, especially serge skirts, always become shiny-looking before they are nearly worn out. To remedy this, place the skirt on a board and rub the shiny places with sandpaper, not too hard,
but just enough to roughen the nap.
After pressing the skirt will look as good as new.

Regarding Curtains.

When making curtains of any kind,
make the hem the same width each end
so the red may be run through either.
The stitching does not show and once a month, or oftener, the curtains may be reversed, and they wear more evenly.

How to Clean Copper Articles.

Mix fine flour emery with sweet oil until a thin paste is formed, and, using a piece of house flannel as a pad, scour the tarnished surface with the paste until the surface is quite clean. Wipe off the oil from the copper, and with a dry piece of flannel dust the copper over with crocus powder, and polish with this until quite bright.

BATTING PAIRS PITCHERS FEAR

Powerful Combinations That Break Up Many Games.

DETROIT HAS DANGEROUS DUO

Cobb and Crawford Have Driven Home Many Runs, and So Have Baker and Collins—Pittsburgh and Chicago Have Two Good Tandems.

By TOMMY CLARK.
Ever notice that nearly every strong major league team has a powerful batting pair—that is, two great cleanup hitters who follow each other in the lineup? Very often it is these pairs that make the success of a team.

For instance, the Cobb-Crawford combination is the most dreaded in the fast set. Pitchers fear the innings that each of these two batters have a chance at the bat. Cobb and Crawford drive home more runs than any other pair in the country. For that matter, Deleahanty and Moriarty, who follow the great Detroit stars, form a pretty tough duo themselves.

The Philadelphia Americans have a mighty pair in Collins and Baker, and a pitcher is mighty glad when he has rid himself of them. Pittsburgh has two great combinations in Byrne, Leach, Clarke and Wagner. Brooklyn has two dandies in Daubert and Wheat. The St. Louis stars are Ellis and Konechky. Philadelphia's tandem is Lobert and Magee.

Cleveland has a great pair in Jackson and Lajoie, and so has Boston in COBB AND MORIARTY ARGUE ON SCORING.

Here's a dialogue which took place on the Detroit bench to show how futile it is for ball players or fans to try to agree with the scores on hits, errors and stolen bases:

A player hits a liner in left. The outfielder hesitated a fraction of a second, after which he tore in after the ball. It hit his gloved hand about a foot above the ground.

"Hit," said Cobb.

"That was an error," judged Moriarty.

"Why was it?"

"He ought to have had it."

"Nothing of the kind, Morrie. That ball was a bad one and low, and he only got one hand on it anyway."

"He didn't judge it quick, did he?"

"He misjudged it, and he had time to get both hands on it if he had started right away, which he didn't. It's an error with me."

"Well, it goes as a bit here."

Later on a runner tried to steal second. The ball reached the infielder's hand as the runner started his slide for the bag. The infielder dropped the ball.

"Stolen base, that," said Moriarty.

"Error for the second baseman," judged Cobb.

"That wasn't an error. He wouldn't have had him anyway."

"He ought to have had him easy if he had held on to the ball. I make that an error."

"And I stick to the original statement that it's a stolen base."

M'ALEER BOOSTS MILAN.

Manager of Washington Says His Outfielder Has No Equal in Big Leagues.

"The greatest outfielder in the country today is Clyde Milan," says Jim McAleer, manager of the Washingtons. "Milan is a real wonder, and I would not trade him for any outfielder in the big leagues. He covers more ground than any man I know of, is a sure catch and does something sensational in almost every game. He hasn't got a weakness. He has made half a dozen seemingly impossible catches this season, catches that no other man in the

DETROIT AND PITTSBURGH'S POWERFUL BATTING TANDEMS.

Lewis and Speaker. Neither the Washington nor St. Louis American league team has any great swatters following each other in the lineup. The New York Americans' best are Wolter and Chase. The Chicago Nationals have two powerful combinations in Scheckard, Schute, Hofman and Chance, while Hoblitzell and Mitchell are a rugged tandem for Cincinnati. Doyle and Snodgrass are the heaviest guns for the New York Giants.

With any of these men at bat and men on bases it is ten to one that the pitcher will do his utmost to pass 'em up.

CHANCE IS DISSATISFIED.

Manager Now Trying Hard to Fill Up Holes in Cub Machine.

Frank Chance is dissatisfied with the Cubs and is now getting rid of a number of the veterans. The peerless leader recognizes the fact that his once great team has gone back and that unless he is successful in his efforts to plug up the numerous holes he will not have a chance to be a factor in the present race. It appears to be the old story over again of a team of veterans starting down grade and nothing being able to stop them. Pittsburgh is another team which is made up largely of old players, but Fred Clarke seems to have the knack of getting his veterans in shape every spring, and the Pirates are in evidence in the present race.

Cobb Forces Way Into Print.
Tyrus Cobb simply forces his name into the sporting pages by some sensational feat in batting, fielding or base running almost daily.

world would have made. I am proud of Milan and predict that it won't be long before he is classed with the great luminaries of the game. Moreover, he is batting well, and that adds to his value. I wish I had two more outfielders of his caliber. If I had the Nationals would make all the teams step lively to win a game from us."

Famous Athlete Says He Has Had Last Fling at All Around Title.

Martin Sheridan has announced that he had competed for the last time in the all around championships and that he was content to leave his present world's all around record of 7,385 points for others to shoot at. Martin has not the time nor the inclination to go through another long siege of training necessary to fit himself for an all around championship. He says he still will take an occasional fling at discus throwing, shot putting, weight heaving, standing jumping and events which come easy for him without special preparation. "Never no more," however, for Martin as far as the all around game goes.

A. W. COOKE GIVES IMPRESSIONS OF WASHINGTON CITY

A Wayland Cooke, who has just returned from Washington City, where he spent some time, gives out an interesting interview in regard to politics and politicians as viewed from the Capital standpoint.

Mr. Cooke says, that judging from the talk in Washington, the prospects of Democratic success are fine. Everything seems to indicate the demoralization of the Republican party and a harmony amongst the Democrats which old members of the House say they have never seen before. "Mr. Underwood," he says, "was commended by a great many Congressmen for his coolness and self-possession, and his suggestions on the floor as to the course and position of the party on public questions are almost invariably accepted by the Democrats without dispute."

He says: "If the nomination were to take place now either Champ Clark or Woodrow Wilson would be nominated, judging from the talk in Washington; that these two are about the only ones spoken of at the present time."

Mr. Cooke had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Clark and says that "there is no doubt but that he is a great man, his personality being especially attractive, and that the members of Congress have great respect and friendship for him, and speak of him as a man with a great big heart, who is loved on account of his great humanity and uniform kindness to everybody. He seems to be the favorite of a great many of the Congressmen for the Democratic nomination for President, although Woodrow Wilson has a large number of strong supporters, among whom are Senator Gore."

Mr. Cooke says that Major Stedman's maiden speech created quite an impression in Washington, a number of Congressmen having spoken of it in his presence. A member of Congress, seeing Major Stedman approaching the hotel, said, "He looks like Robert E. Lee, doesn't he?" "Already Major Stedman has acquired a large influence with the members of Congress, both among the Democrats and Republicans. I was struck with the consideration with which he was treated by everybody."

"The North Carolina delegation seems to have a very strong status. Mr. Kitchen seems to be the most aggressive of the tariff reformers in the House. From what I could gather he is considered one of the ablest debaters in Congress, and his influence with the party is very great.

"Just say I had a pleasant time and met a great many of the men whom the people are talking about and who are most in the public eye at this time."

SMOCKED FROCK WELL LIKED

With Appropriate Trimming They Are Just the Thing for the Little Girl.

Smocked frocks with bands of hand-scoped linen as the only trimming are attractive for the tiny girl just graduated from the "jumper" stage. When she grows somewhat older the smocked frock may be adorned by a sash of pale pink or blue ribbon. Later on comes the practical Russian blouse dress of pink, blue, or natural colored linen or pique, which is durable and will stand any number of washings.

For parties white is worn altogether by small girls, although sometimes a sheer lawn frock is placed over a slip of pink or blue to give it color. Slippers, socks, hair ribbon and sash then all are of the shade of this slip. Made belts and girdles instead of a sash tied each time it is put on trim many party frocks, although the wide ribbon sashes never go completely out of fashion for children.—Harper's Bazar.

Long Earrings.
Long earrings continue in favor, but the very newest is the "Harvest Moon." It is a round, flat ring set with tiny white stones and split like a key ring. The ear slips into the slit, and is secured there by a pearl headed screw, so that it is not necessary to pierce the ears in order to wear this pretty decoration.

Moss amethysts in antique mountings will be worn with shirtwaists and morning frocks during the coming season, and very attractive designs in this novel stone are already displayed in the stores.

White Frocks.

We shall wear them, of course, during the next season—wear them often, too, if the fashion rumors are true.

And all sorts of fabrics are going into these summer white frocks. Sheer batistes, marquisette, cotton voiles, mulls and swisses, of course, will make the lingerie frocks, while heavier fabrics like linens, reps, piques and lawns will be in evidence.

The Peasant Coiffure.
The peasant coiffure, which is gaining votaries, is a very picturesque and common adaptation of the original design. After parting the tresses in the center, above the brow, the long locks at the sides are plaited and rolled round over the ears in a spiral mound. Those at the back are curled, and it is noticeable that they are piled higher upon the crown of the head than a month or more ago. Little children are wearing their hair in just the same way, but there are no curls at the back; all the locks are crispy plaited and twisted in spirals above the ears.

Silk Petticoats.
Some of the new silk petticoats are most gorgeous in color and trimming. One of brilliant scarlet was made of satin. The under flounce was of pompadour silk in red and black with a touch of blue, while over this was another flounce of red silk net finished in points and bound with black satin.

Pennies Kept in Circulation.
It is estimated that on an average each penny in circulation changes hands eleven times a week.

ROCCO ROSES FIND FAVOR

Worth of Ideas, Originating in Paris, Recognized by the Women of America.

Those tiny rocco silk roses that have been the passion of the Parisienne for the past two years have found the way to American feminine hearts as well, and have played a large part as a decorative motif on hats, blouse, girdles and neckwear during the past season. They are so piquant in coloring and so adaptable to dainty design that plain satin and gold evening shoes and slippers are decorated with them, either in little clusters or dainty wreaths, instead of the long-used buckle or bow.

Silk stockings also flaunt them gayly, and little sprays of these dainty roses in dull tints add a note of elegance and suggest a foreign touch that is very "fetching." Of course, the handbag of velvet that has been so important an accessory to the street costume has also been embellished by this means of embellishment, done in black moire or satin ribbon, with a mere dash of gold to blend in with the long gold cords that are so fashionable.

The longer the cords attached to these bags and the handsomer the tassels, the more desirable they are, although when a bag swings at so great a length it is found to be impracticable, so that many women carry silver or gold mesh bags besides, which hold a tiny handkerchief and the necessary small coins.

Unfrayed Scallops. Some housekeepers object to the buttonhole scallop on embroidery, because it frays in washing. This can be overcome in several ways. The surest is to buttonhole a second time over the purled edge, when the scallop has been worked and cut out.

Another method is to run the outline of the scallop with machine stitching before buttonholing. Or in cutting leave a narrow margin and turn back under the scallop and hem to the material.

If these are too much trouble, at least wash the linen before cutting out. The material shrinks and is much less likely to fray. Where the entire piece is not washed, the embroidered edge can be dipped in lukewarm water for a few minutes, then ironed dry and later cut out close to the purled edge.

Siamese Stockings. In Siam men of the high and middle classes as well as women wear long cotton stockings reaching high above the knee.

DAILY MARKET REPORTS

COTTON LETTER TO J. E. LATHAM AND COMPANY.

New Orleans, La., May 30.—Owing to a legal holiday in the North, there is no weather map today. According to the latest of records at 8 p. m. last night there were good rains in the cattle country of northwest Texas, Amarillo showing 1.02; also some rain in north-Oklahoma, Oklahoma City showing .19. There was no rain of consequence elsewhere except at a few isolated points in lower Louisiana and Mississippi, where a local tornado occurred. According to some private telegrams received here there were some good rains in localities in western Oklahoma but that state has not yet had a general soaking rain, such as it needs. The Washington forecast is unsettled weather in the western half of the belt.

New York being closed, we had a quiet, steady market, prices holding well to last night's closing figures. There has been a great deal of liquidation in the past ten days by smaller longs owing to the coming bureau report. This will be published Friday, June 2, at 11 a. m. our time. It will give estimated acreage of cotton planted this year and condition of crop on May 25th. Comparisons will be made with 33,418,000 acres planted last year and a condition last year of 82, and a ten year average of 81. Opinion at present is that the increase in acreage will be five to seven percent over last year and a condition between 85 and 87.

Spot interests are also holding off awaiting the bureau and spot sales have fallen off to very small figures everywhere. The movement reflects this in very small receipts but also a small loss in stock.

TRACTION COMPANY OFFICIALS CHARGED WITH DEFRAUDING

J. W. Sykes And H. P. MacKnight Arrested on Charge of Securing Coal Under False Pretense—MacKnight Sues Out Habeas Corpus Writ.

Arrest and bail proceedings have been instituted against J. W. Sykes, of Greensboro, and H. P. MacKnight, of Southern Pines, and other officials of the "North Carolina Traction Company" by A. S. Nowlin & Co., coal dealers of Lynchburg, Va. Sykes is now in jail in Greensboro pending a hearing, while MacKnight is in the Wake county jail awaiting the result of habeas corpus proceedings instituted by his counsel yesterday in an effort to prevent his being jailed.

The charge against the defendants is that they secured by fraud nearly $400 worth of coal from the plaintiffs, the facts in the case being as follows: Sykes, MacKnight and others have been stirring up interest in a proposed railroad from Winston, Greensboro and perhaps other points to points in Virginia. They claimed that they were officials of the "North Carolina Traction Company," which organization had a paid in capital stock of something over $1,000,000 with main offices in Greensboro. With regularly printed letter heads they wrote to the Lynchburg coal firm ordering coal to be sent to Greensboro and Winston. They would then go to coal dealers in the two cities and explain that the coal had been shipped to the wrong destination and rather than have it re-shipped they would sell the coal at a discount of 20 cents per ton. Of course, this offer would be gladly accepted and the money paid in pocketed, while the Lynchburg concern would be left in the dark. If there is such a railroad company it is not known and it is certain that it has not a paid in capital stock, as claimed on the bill heads.

Sykes declares that he was working in good faith and that all money he collected from the sale of the coal he turned over to MacKnight. It is generally believed here that he was used by MacKnight as a tool in carrying out his scheme. When arrested in Raleigh yesterday MacKnight at once applied for a writ of habeas corpus, contending that there was not sufficient cause as set forth in the warrant to hold him. Justice Brown has not yet rendered his decision and until this is forthcoming MacKnight will remain in Wake jail.

NORTH STATE CAPITAL NEWS

Special to Telegram. Raleigh, May 30.—George Potter, W. H. Bailey, and G. C. Strickland made the unique defense today in the federal court that they were not guilty of furnishing liquor to a blind tiger but that they did buy whiskey from the tiger, who was J. E. Young, at Princeton, Johnston county. And on the strength of this admission Judge Connor directed the jury to return a verdict of guilty of buying the whiskey, which under the law, he pointed out is as much a crime as the selling of the liquor.

Bill Shambly, of Durham county, was acquitted of the charge of blockading on the plea that while the stills were on his lands they were the property of his son and a nephew, both of whom have left this section.

While at work on the Julius Lewis building on Fayetteville street this morning two negro carpenters were badly hurt by the breaking of a tall brace for a scaffold to enable carpenters to work on the ceiling. The men were thrown through an opening in the first

Load of Hay And Wagon Were Burned

L. A. Andrews was the sufferer in a rather peculiar accident yesterday. Two wagons were dispatched eastward about nine miles down the McConnell road for loads of hay. On the return journey one of the negro drivers, on account of his carelessness with a cigarette, suddenly discovered that his load was ablaze. An unsuccessful attempt was made to free the horses, which, mad with terror, became unmanageable and started for the woods. The animals chose different paths around a tree, the load remained on the spot, and wagon and hay were burned to ashes. The horses were recaptured and though both are rather painfully burned, no considerable damage was done to the animals.

As far as it is possible to do so in view of the fact that the only direct information as to his proposed visit has come through newspaper announcement of the meagerest sort, the Capital Club is taking steps to entertain Governor Woodrow Wilson royally tomorrow night. The club had invited him to be the guest of the club here. There has up to this hour been no definite personal response on the part of the distinguished visitor to North Carolina. Different prominent members of the club have invited Mr. Wilson to be guests in their homes while here. There have been no responses to these invitations. However, on the strength of the newspaper announcement that Mr. Wilson was preparing to "put his best foot foremost" tomorrow night for a reception. And, as some of the members of the club expressed it, they will have the blow out whether there is disappointment as to the coming of the distinguished guest or not. There will probably be a speech by Mr. Wilson in the early evening before the reception, this to be in the academy or in the unfinished auditorium.

that educated men are needed to take hold of public affairs and strike at the system which has so long been in vogue and which is now for the first time beginning to crumble. The nation will no longer in the future make unconditional landgrants and franchises and place in the hands of the few the resources of this great nation. I am two kinds of a Democrat, said the speaker, I am a Democrat by birth, and then I grew up and convinced myself that that was the only right thing to be.

Among the Republicans, the standpatters, and this is the only variety which can be defined, said Dr. Wilson, hold that the government should be administered for the benefit of those who have most at stake. To such a principle every intelligent man must be opposed. The "interested" man can never originate impartial legislation. We must look to the expert student, to the well-informed man of the middle class, who has no large individual interests which may suffer, for the laws of the future, and to this field he called the educated man. Not aloofness but participation.

He spoke beautifully of the heroism of the soldiers who went forth to battle in a cause of conscience with no hope of personal reward, imbued with a spirit of service and self-abnegation never paralleled in the world's history, and paid a tribute to the grizzled veterans who shared in the honors of this great day.

He made a strong appeal to the men of the graduating class to go forth with the purpose of living lives of service and lives of love, not only for themselves but also for the great world in which they are to live; to give themselves up to a veneration of truth and honesty and honor, concluding with Lovelace's far-famed lines to his loved Althea: "I could not love thee dear so much, Loved I not honor more."

Announcements by Dr. Venable.

Following the address of Governor Wilson, President Venable read the names of the winners of the various college honors and prizes, and commented hopefully on the future of the university. He reported that the legislature has increased its annual appropriation and that the gift of the Peabody education fund of $40,000 made possible a new building for the school of education. He announced also that through the efficient work of Rev. Mr. Holt the fund for the erection of a self-help house had been completed. A monument is to be erected on the campus to the memory of the men who left the university to go to the war, which will be unveiled some time next year.

A new medal by Gen. Julian S. Carr had been instituted for the best speaker in the junior class award to be made in junior week of every year. A $200 fellowship has been donated by an anonymous friend in the department of chemistry.

HOW THE TOBACCO COMPANY DECISION WAS RECEIVED IN WINSTON AND DURHAM

R. J. Reynolds Thinks Country Will Run All Right Despite Decision---Dukes Not Heard From in Durham---Fears of Durham People Somewhat Relieved.

The Opinion of Reynolds.

Winston-Salem, May 30.—"Oh, the country will run along all right," and this was all that Mr. R. J. Reynolds had to say when asked last night for his opinion of the changed conditions that the decision of the United States Supreme Court against the American Tobacco Company may bring about.

However, from the general trend of the remarks made by the local tobacco king, it could easily be seen that he was not in the least disturbed over the results of the far-reaching decision, which may, or may not strike a blow at the great industry which he has built up here in North Carolina.

While Mr. Reynolds let it be known that he had not studied the matter sufficiently as yet to give out an interview, still it is a safe guess to say that he is of the same opinion concerning the American Tobacco Company, in which he is directly interested, that he was in the matter of the Standard Oil Company a few days ago—that the American Tobacco Company will have to be reorganized upon different lines. This will probably be done and the great corporation will go on doing business without any material handicaps. When the case of the Standard Oil Company was decided, Mr. Reynolds said that all the great corporations and the people wanted to know is what the law really is. Knowing this they are perfectly well to abide by it without remonstrance.

There is considerable interest in the American Tobacco Company decision here owing to the fact that one of the companies named in the allegations by the federal government is a local concern, being the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company.

From all that could be learned from the tobacco men of this city last night it seems to be the general opinion that the decision of the Supreme Court will not materially interfere with the tobacco market, but that the manufacturers will adjust themselves to the new conditions brought about by the decision, whatever future developments may show these to be.

Durham View of the Decision.

Durham, May 30.—The simple announcement yesterday that the American Tobacco Company had lost its case with the government caused momentary consternation among dozens and scores of people here though the retiring hour which found the people in possession of more facts than at first, restored the equilibrium and sent them to their sleep satisfied.

It is conceded that no place on the continent is so much dependent upon tobacco and its concomitants as this one. The nucleus for the great company was Durham and before the American Tobacco company was known Durham was at home in Egypt. The famous bull had belted across the ocean. Since that time it has not been less in the public eye though it never entirely obstructed the popular vision.

A million times has the question been asked that if the courts once went against the company what would be the effect upon Durham. Some have intimated that they will leave town on the first train others have declared that they will take twenty-five cents on the dollar for their property and others have intimated that they would die on the spot. The state legislatures have given several first class spasms. Every two years it breaks out anew. If the company withdrew its activities here doubtless there would be great industrial damage done.

A number of employees of the company expressed an opinion early yesterday. They grinned but said it hurt. They had received no notice of the decision nor knew what it was. Many business men expressed an opinion. Some could see disaster only, others feared but a temporary lull if at all. The best opinion was that there would be a re-organization, that the decision is like Judge Long's address to the Salisbury mob. The judge heard the racket at the jail when three negroes were about to be lynched. He went over, yelled at the mob that it was a disorderly assembly and unlawful. He ordered them to disperse. The lynching soon followed.

The analogy may be bad. The courts have intimated unlawful combines and ordered dissolution, but it would appear that having the best of intentions to make tobacco, the company can hardly be dispersed.

There was much local interest in its outcome from another very different point of view. A Durham lawyer, W. W. Fuller, chief counsel for the company, was in it with all of his heart. Winning the case against the best talent that the government could command would have made Mr. Fuller one of the greatest lawyers in the country.

As it is, the company appears to have won a good deal. It does not get the same sour lemon that was handed the oil trust. Its personnel is undisturbed and its reorganization scheme has six months in which to develop. It gets many of the points that the oil company missed and all in all, there appears little to be worrying about.

The larger position of those who serve the company here, the smaller the fear. Both Messrs. Duke are in New York. While it has been known a long time that they did not feel perfectly easy about it, they were in suspense because they knew nothing of the decision. Since it has been made it doubtless gives less cause for fear.

The tobacco company perhaps does half the business that Durham gives to the world. Its crippling or removal from the place would have a terrible effect upon business, much as one believes that there would spring up independent concerns. The business has been done upon such a tremendous scale that independents would have great difficulty in swinging them.

It is much the biggest item that is in any wise related to Durham happening here since the company grew so great.

History of Tobacco Case.

The American Tobacco corporations were made the target of the second big "trust" prosecution of recent years. The first was the Standard Oil. Because the testimony taken in the tobacco case was not so extensive as that in the Standard Oil, the two cases were before the Supreme Court for consideration at the same time.

The attempt of the government to dissolve the tobacco corporation as violating the Sherman anti-trust law took shape in 1907. In that year a petition was filed in the United States circuit court at New York. The government asked that the American Tobacco Company, its officers, directors and affiliated corporations, be prevented and enjoined from restraining and monopolizing commerce in tobacco.

The restraints and the monopolies alleged by the government, were said to have been obtained by an intricate system of corporate organization. It began in 1890 when the first American Tobacco Company was organized. The new company took over the business of five independent cigarette concerns.

The government claimed that the various organizations represented in the American Tobacco Company, were created with the definite purpose to destroy competition and that they accomplished that purpose. Each step was attacked as a part of an unlawful plan, whose development and progress was advanced, it was charged, by duress, oppression, and unfair methods intended to drive out and keep out competition and secure monopolies.

The defendants claimed that nothing was to be found in the organization of these corporations, but the orderly, natural and legitimate development of a great business. They said the acquisition had been proper and that no intent to restrain trade or monopolize, trade had prompted the creation of corporations.

The circuit court found that there existed a restraint of commerce, but said nothing about the charges of monopolizing. In its decree, the court dismissed the petition as to the Imperial Company and the British-American Company and this feature of the decree the government appealed to the Supreme Court. It dismissed the petition as to the United Cigar Stores Company, and from this, too, the government appealed.

The circuit court decreed that the American Tobacco Company, the American Snuff Company, the American Cigar Company, the American Stogie Company and MacAndrews & Forbes Company were unlawful combinations and restrained them from engaging in interstate or foreign commerce. From this the defendants appealed to the Supreme Court. So did the government. The government objected because the Conley Cigar Company and the individual defendants, headed by James B. Duke, were not made parties to the conspiracy

Contrasts Seen In the Women Fruit Peddlers Down In Mexico

Photos copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

MEXICO is a land of contrasts, and the traveler sees them on all sides. The towns are much alike, and a picture of a street in one city might do for a scene in forty other towns of a similar size. The native women who sell fruits in the streets are always picturesque either for their beauty or the lack of it. Compare the two street merchants pictured above. They are native Mexicans—that is, they are of Indian stock. The one is young and attractive, the other is the reverse. It is difficult to believe that the girl will ever grow up to become what the old crone is, but time works wonders in Mexico as elsewhere. The pictures were made a short time ago in Torreon, in the present zone of disturbance.

DAINTY BITS OF ORNAMENT

Old Gold and Some Prized Family Stone Are All the Articles Really Needed.

In any big city where there are arts and craft workers in metals old gold and some family stone or other can be made up into beautiful ornaments, these having special value through their association.

One ring of this sort seen recently had been made from an old thimble, a small yellow diamond and a deep, yellowish brown caligorm pebble that had little value except its pretty color and the fact that it came from an old pin the mother had bought in Scotland on her honeymoon tour.

A neck chain pendant was made up in round disk shape, the filigree of the silver setting holding a central bit of turquoise matrix in irregular shape. If there is an antique store handy and there is money enough for the purchase, look for an old Mexican earring, or some quaint round earring and have it made up into a ring. At these places rose diamonds, which are without the faceting of other stones, sometimes sell very cheaply. And when a girl has come to the age for wearing it, she loves a bit of real jewelry.

Of course all these suggestions are suitable for other gala occasions, such as birthdays, and especially the birthday when daughter is able to announce to father and mother: "Today I am sixteen."

Its all right to give praise where praise is due, but adjudging the dues sometimes is a quarrelsome thing.

Classification of Diamonds.

The diamond called a brilliant has 58 facets. A rose diamond is faceted only on the top; it has a flat bottom.

Circulation of Silver and Gold.

For every ton of gold in circulation there are 15 tons of silver.

to restrain and because all were not held to be attempting to monopolize.

The appeals were argued before the Supreme Court, first in January, 1910, and the second time in January 1911. Prominent attorneys appeared. For the government Attorney General Wickersham and his special assistant, J. C. McReynolds, addressed the court. For the American Tobacco Company there appeared John G. Johnson, of Philadelphia; DeLancey Nicoll and Junius Parker, of New York, while William B. Hornblower, of New York, argued for the Imperial Tobacco Company, and Sol M. Strook, of New York, for the United Cigar Stores Company.

FROM AN OLD BATH TOWEL

How Efficient and Serviceable Washing Glove May Be Economically Evolved.

As a rule, when a bath towel begins to get thin in places and tears, there are plenty of pieces of sound material still left in it at the sides and ends, and our sketch contains a good suggestion to which these parts of the towel may be put.

A bath glove need only be roughly made, and can be cut out in one piece and sewn together at the edges, and then turned inside out and bound at the wrist with tape. A good size in which to make these gloves is eight inches long by four and a half inches wide, so that the piece of material required will be nine and a half inches long by eight and a half inches wide, the extra half inch being allowed for turning in when the edges are sewn together. A small loop of tape is attached to one side by which the glove may hang upon a nail in the wall.

Up-to-Date Hypocrite.

Secret service men in Chicago, tracking counterfeiters, finally ran down a man who was ostensibly selling Bibles for a living, and found a counterfeiting plant concealed in his room under half a hundred Bibles stacked neatly in a corner. They felt sure that they were on the right track when they entered the room and found two half-gallon jugs of whisky on a center table.

Patience.

"Pa, was Job the most patient man in the world?" "No. We haven't any evidence that he ever trained a dog to walk up a ladder on his hind feet or that he ever succeeded in balancing a feather on his nose."

POLITICIANS ARE WATCHING BRYAN

Nebraskan Seems to Be Backing Ollie James.

IS INTERESTED IN CONTESTS.

He is Active Against Martin in Virginia and is Opposing Paynter in Kentucky—Governor Osborn of Michigan Says Stenographers Never Report Him Correctly.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN. Washington, May 30.—(Special.)—

Bryan's elimination process is interesting Democrats who have voted three times for the Nebraska statesman. A man who had aspirations for the Democratic nomination sent a friend to Bryan to sound him as to which man of all those mentioned he (Bryan) would consider available.

Man after man was taken up and canvassed, and some fault was found with every one. Finally in desperation the emissary of the candidate asked Bryan to name a man who would be satisfactory to him, and Bryan in reply asked, "How would Ollie James of Kentucky do?"

Bryan's activity in different states is also alarming Democratic politicians. It is known that he is particularly active against Senator Martin, the minority leader, and Virginia has a great many Bryan followers. Bryan is for James against Paynter in Kentucky. He does not hesitate to take sides in these contests.

A Fast Talker.

Governor Osborn of Michigan gave the stenographers at the finance hearing a busy half day when he was before the committee. Senator Stone called attention to the fact and suggested that Osborn revise his remarks. "I have never seen a stenographer who could report me," said the governor, "and I shall take that for granted and never do any revising."

The Michigan governor also gave the opponents of reciprocity a busy half day. He favored the agreement, in which he differed from the other Michigan men. Senator Stone, who also favors reciprocity, said the governor's statement was "one of the clearest and strongest we have heard."

Mahogany Doors Turning Gray.

The fine mahogany doors of the senate office building are turning a dirty gray color and mar the general appearance of elegance of that luxurious structure where everything is of the very best. These doors remind one of a red pressed brick wall which seems to ooze out a gray color and spoils the looks of the building.

The explanation is that the mahogany was not properly seasoned, and the dampness in the raw wood coming through the polish has made the doors a remarkable contrast to the other fittings in the building.

Condemns Deadly Weapons.

Speaking on the tariff Congressman Sisson of Mississippi made an earnest plea against the promiscuous manner in which deadly weapons are sold.

"They cause murderous men to be more dreaded than the savage red man or wild beast," he said. "Why not tax them?" he asked. "Whisky, cards and pistols go together. Let us tax pistols, not pious; let us tax dirk knives, not disk harrows; let us tax pistol cartridges, not corn planters. My own people are sometimes charged with being 'pistol toters.' Well, why do you make those things and sell them to us? Either stop making them or stop lecturing us."

Pride in Public Buildings.

"From a business point of view—that is, in dollars and cents," said Supervising Architect Taylor, in charge of government buildings—"it may be said that the present policy of having many public buildings is wrong, but from another point of view it is right. Our foreign born citizens are more impressed by seeing government business transacted in a large and commodious building than if it were hidden away on a back street or sandwiched in between a grocery or a tailor shop."

"Then it means much to a town. 'That is our government building,' the person proud of his town tells the visitor, and it is very gratifying to the local pride."

Gallinger's Earnest Effort.

Taking up a fight that was long ago carried on by Senator Frye and later by Senator Hanna, Senator Gallinger now is making an earnest effort to restore the American merchant marine by passing a subsidy bill. The New Hampshire senator was almost successful four years ago, and the bill would have passed if Senator Carmack of Tennessee had not inaugurated a filibuster at the end of the congress which prevented a vote.

For weeks Senator Gallinger has had the measure before the senate and patiently awaited the convenience of senators who wanted to talk or who wanted to consider other legislation. He has a bill now that is in accord with the plans of the administration for subsidized ship lines to South America. The Pacific coast men who have been in favor of subsidy measures do not like the idea of leaving their coast out of the bill, but they will support it in the hope that the Pacific coast lines may receive consideration another time.

The "Ring" Finger.

Many explanations have been offered as to why the third finger of the left hand should be chosen by all British brides to bear the wedding ring; but most probably it is solely a matter of numerical order, being a relic of the old marriage ceremony, in which the bridegroom, taking the ring, placed it first upon the thumb of his elect, as he pronounced the name of the Father; then upon her forefinger, as he spoke the name of the Son; next upon her middle finger, as he named the Holy Ghost; and, at the final "Amen," upon her third finger, where it remained. The early Puritans sought to abolish the ring as "a vain and heathen emblem," but the old custom of giving a ring as a token of love will probably remain to us as long as the solemnization of matrimony is a recognized ceremony of the church.

THE KERN BOOM HITS WASHINGTON

Gets Cold Reception From Indiana Senator--Wilson is Favorite in Capital--Democrats Planning to Control Senate.

(By RALPH M. WHITESIDE.)

Special to Telegram. Washington, May 30.—"For President John W. Kern of Indiana." Thus reads the latest entry in the Democratic Presidential stakes. The entry was made through the medium of handsome campaign buttons which from some mysterious source have become plentiful in Washington.

Senator Kern is a wary and experienced politician and is not thankful to his friends who have sprung his boom at this stage of game. He realizes that with the Wilson boom, the Clark boom, the Harmon boom and various other well developed booms now before the public this is no time for a new boom to develop health and strength so he is discouraging the Kern button man.

Not so the possessors of the other booms. Here the other day minority leader Jim Mann gave the Clark boom a fine, fresh supply of hot air which gave it a story fillip upward, while a Southern newspaper supporter of the Wilson boom through a canvass of the Democratic members of Congress has discovered a majority of them are strong for the Georgia-Virginia-Jerseyman.

The Harmon boom seems to be rather quiescent just now but men wise in the way of politics are not deceived by the lack of Harmon talk and activity and are watching the Ohioan as closely as ever.

In the meantime the question persists "What about Bryan?"

I have talked with more than one close student of American politics who believes at the psychological moment the friends of Mr. Bryan will put him forward and nominate him.

If this does not happen, the way things stand now Wilson looks like the man of the hour.

Mr. Wilson's Western trip is being followed with the utmost interest because it is expected to develop more definite signs of the sentiment of that section, which has always most sturdily stood by Bryan. Thus far reports have indicated that Wilson looks good to the old-time Bryan followers. Moreover, Mr. Bryan himself is reported very well pleased with the person and the performance of the Jersey governor, albeit Wilson has not a record of regularity in support of Bryan.

Between times of talking over their presidential riches, the Democrats are discussing the possibilities of gaining control of the Senate at the next election. And really this is not so much rainbow chasing as it might be. It is no news that the Republican majority in the Senate is now only eight. A turnover of five seats would give them a clean majority. Of the Democratic Senators who go out at the next election only one seat, so far as the party is concerned is in danger, that of Senator Watson of West Virginia. On the Republican side there is no such easy confidence.

Senators Borah and Bourne will probably come back from Idaho and Oregon; Briggs of Delaware is likely to be succeeded by a Democrat; Norris Brown, of Nebraska, confronts the probability of one fight for his nomination, and a still more dangerous one for election, with chances in favor of the Democrats making a gain. Senator Curtis of Kansas must scrap Walter R. Stubbs for the Republican nomination in Kansas, and then the winner must meet up with a Democracy that talks confidently of getting away with the Legislature on the issue of anti-Taftism and anti-reciprocity. Quite a lot of things are the matter with Kansas, from a Republican viewpoint, chief of them being a tendency to go Democratic.

Just the same sort of trouble confronts Senator Dixon of Montana. He will have to fight "Tom" Carter for his Republican nomination, and it will be no easy battle; and the winner must then go into the ring with a Democracy that, albeit considerably disconcerted over talk in Washington about free wool, is none the less cocky and confident.

Senator Frye of Maine, has a fine chance to be succeeded by a Democrat. The Senator's health is far from good, and it is not expected he will again be a candidate. The Democrats hope to hold the State and to control its Senatorial representation for the first time in its history.

Senator Gamble of South Dakota will probably have a three-cornered fight for nomination. Himself posing as the middle-road Republican aspirant, he will have a stalwart, probably Representative Martin—and a progressive yet to be indicated, in the field against him.

A safe way to gamble on South Dakota is to divide the money into four piles, put one on the Democrats, one on Gamble, one on the Republican stalwarts, and the fourth on the Republican progressives; then go to sleep and wake up after the election to see whether you lost all the piles, or only three.

If Senator Kenyon of Iowa votes against reciprocity he will probably get away with the Democratic nomination for long term to succeed himself. If he votes the other way, he will likely lose to that battle-scarred not bottle-scarred, mind you—veteran of many wars, Col. Lafe Young; and if Kenyon and Young have a close fight, stranger things might happen than the election of a Democrat to the Senatorial situation.

Altogether, the Democrats stand chances to gain in eight of nine places; the Republicans have just one chance—West Virginia—to make a gain. The Senate is leaning toward Democracy.

Experiments that have been conducted for several years by the Department of Agriculture have progressed to a point where it seems likely there is a new industry open to the South, and one that will make the United States independent of a foreign camphor supply. In a paper that has just been issued by Prof. Rodney True and S. C. Hood the results in Florida are discussed and the conclusion is reached that camphor production in this country is practical, and can be made profitable.

Japan now furnishes the bulk of the camphor in the world's trade. The most of it comes from Formosa, but a small quantity is brought from the mainland of China. The history of the tree and the drug is interesting, and is gone into by the authors of the paper.

Manager Director Dawe, of the Southern Commercial Congress, returned to Washington this morning from a three weeks' trip throughout the South. During that time he traversed parts of twelve states. He reports a most hopeful feeling all through the South as to its future and its development. This is particularly true in the cotton-growing states.

Of course, it is a mere coincidence that right in front of the White House be "Talk about heart failure," said former Congressman Lamar, of Florida, Georgia, and the District of Columbia, "I had an attack of it the first day of my service as county attorney down in Florida. The jury list was being called for the beginning of the term, and the first name called was Baltimore Lamar. I wondered with apprehension who would come forward in answer to that name, and behold about as black a negro as ever grew up in our section. I asked him where he got his name, and he told of his admiration for his master, named Lamar, a relative of mine, and the Baltimore he took because a fine horse owned by a neighbor had been called Lord Baltimore, and the name seemed attractive. The day's work proceeded without further excitement after this explanation."

COURT PASSES ON

MOOTED QUESTION.

Books Must Be Produced "On" or "at" Trial, Not "Before."

Washington, May 30.—A century's mooted legal question was passed upon today by the Supreme Court of the United States, when it decided that the Federal statute requiring the production of books for examination "in a trial" meant production "on" or "at trial" and not "before" trial.

The case in point was a suit of David J. Winn, a cotton yarn manufacturer at Sumpter, S. C., to recover from Carpenter, Baggott & Co., cotton brokers, of New York, damages claimed for selling out without his consent contracts for purchases of cotton in 1906.

The courts direction to the firm to exhibit its books before trial and to permit Winn to investigate, copy and make abstracts of them was not complied with on the ground that the court had no authority to make such an order. A judgment of $2,340 in default was entered against the firm.

W. F. JARRETT, CHECK FLASHER, IN TOILS OF LAW

The police yesterday effected the arrest of W. F. Jarrett, a white man wanted on the charge of passing worthless checks. The check passing occurred several weeks ago when Jarrett passed a $20 check on the Guilford hotel in lieu of board. It was several days later when the hotel people discovered that the check was worthless and the matter was turned over to the police.

Jarrett was traced through Roanoke, Richmond and other cities and yesterday he was cornered in Madison. After being held a short time he gave bond in the sum of $100 for his appearance this morning before Judge Eure to answer to the charge. An officer was preparing to leave Greensboro for Madison after the prisoner when the message was received stating that he had given bond.

NINE GOOSE EGGS HAIDED SPARTANS

"Deacon" Morrissey, Assisted by His Team Mates, Executed Another Shutout Stunt—Score Yesterday Was 4 to 0.

"Deacon" Morrissey again pitched a shut out game yesterday when the Patriots won from Spartanburg by a score of 4 to 0, in a game that was played in an hour and twenty-five minutes. Fast fielding of the locals and the pitching of Morrissey were the outstanding features of the game. While three errors are chalked against the locals, they were errors of the excusable kind, and as no runs were made could not have been costly.

Two of the prettiest features of the game were catches by Carroll and Rickard. Carroll's catch was a one hand stab at a ball much higher than his head which had been hit as a line drive by Walker, but Carroll got it safely in his glove when he jumped for it, turning what looked like a hit into a double play. Walker being out on the catch and Wynne being out for running toward second on the ball. Rickard's was a catch with one hand in center field of a hard hit ball. There were three double plays by the Patriots and one by the Musicians, all neatly executed. The fielding of both teams was good, especially the outfield work and in the tagging of base-runners by double plays.

Ferrall did the mound work for the Musicians, but was hit freely by the locals, 10 hits for 13 bases being obtained off his delivery. Morrissey held his opponents down to three hits and allowed no runs. Doak and Doyle starred with the stick. Rabbit's three-bagger scored the two men who crossed the rubber in the fifth while Doak got the longest drive to center field seen in the park this season.

Canny held the indicator, but his work was not altogether satisfactory. The most kicking came on a ball hit by Walker in the last inning near third base line, which the umpire called foul, but which many Greensboro fans said was fair. This would have given Spartanburg a run but would not have changed the result of the game.

DIAMOND DUST

Where They Play Today.
Spartanburg at Greensboro.
Winston at Charlotte.
Anderson at Greenville.

Rube will try it today.

Morrissey is apparently in a class to himself in this league.

The "Deacon" uses head work as well as arm work in his pitching.

Charlotte has won one game in the last 10.

Manager Doyle made a rich find when he signed Carroll.

That catch of Carroll's yesterday was as pretty as any seen here in a long while.

Rickard, too, was covering a good deal of territory in centerfield and that running catch produced long applause.

We have no kick to make against the present salary limit. If the other teams can't get a good team for that price, it is doubtful if they could for more money.

Any of the teams who wish to investigate what we are paying the Patriots are welcome to come and "investigate." We are within the salary limit, for one, even if we be by ourselves.

Morrissey, who has been unwell for several days, left last night to be gone a week or two until he is better. He is suspended temporarily at his own request.

The league directors met in Charlotte yesterday, but decided not to raise the salary limit in the league. The matter was discussed at some length, but resulted in nothing more than a resolution authorizing the president of the league to investigate clubs and see if they are within the salary limits.

Guess things are getting uncomfortable for Cross in Charlotte.

Clancy is reputed to have the highest priced bunch in the league, but even at that they don't shine like the Patriots.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Claueys bunch now play ball just like they believe they really have a show at the pennant.

One can tell in a minute that it's the first time Winston-Salem has had a winning team by the way the Twin City dopists froth at the mouth about it.

Bein' as how this is the first season in the history of the league that Winston has been threatening the top perch, those fellows over there can be excused for not knowing how to conduct themselves over it.—Charlotte Chronicle.

The Charlotte folks are planning to reorganize the ball team known as the Hornets. Some new stings are expected and a few of the drones will be stimulated.

stop, and something-or-other else in the hospital, so there are others who have sick folks and are winning games. We predict more sick folks in Greensboro by Saturday night.

Maybe if Greensboro does let the Hornets have Togo, the Hornets can shove across one occasionally.

Greenville has been really easy to leave, but every since the revolution the Guilford folks have known how to get in the running.

Well, it's awful cruel, and we might let up on the Hornets if Greensboro would begin to lose too. Can't ease on it with the Patriots in front.

The games which were arranged to be played here with Greensboro the last three days in the week will be played in Greensboro on account of the meeting of the U. C. T. there. The traveling men have been around a bit but have not seen two teams of the class of the Twins and the Patriots, so this is to give them a chance while they are off duty. Three games later in the season will be played on the home grounds in return for these.

They rose quickly from the coops when released yesterday and after circling once or twice darted away in a straight line, each for his own home. They were expected to reach Trenton at 5 p. m. yesterday, covering the distance at a rate of forty to fifty miles an hour. now accepted as the coming sport and is fast rising in popularity. Evidence of this was shown in Greensboro this morning when six coops of racers were liberated for a contest of 450 miles.

According to Wm. W. Allen, Southern express agent, several northern clubs have shipped coops of carrier pigeons to Greensboro and nearby points for the start of a homeward race. Sixty registered birds were released about six o'clock yesterday morning at the depot for the trip to Trenton, N. J. The pigeons are trained with the greatest care and, depending upon that instinctive ability of returning home, which is so strongly developed in them, the pigeons travel with almost incredible speed and without a stop on the journey.

Young White Convict Died in Guilford Jail

A young white man known as Charles Reese, who was convicted on a larceny charge at the December term of court in this city, and sentenced to a year on the roads, died at the county jail yesterday afternoon. He was about eighteen years old. His sickness dated from the early spring and after he became ill he was removed from the convict camp to the jail.

It was known that Reese was not the real name of the prisoner, and after his death one of his fellow convicts said that the young man had given him his real name and asked that in case of his death his mother be notified. The deceased gave his name as Sill Blanchard and the name of his mother as Mrs. Lula Blanchard of Clinton, N. C. The young man's mother was notified by telegraph of his death and if she responds to the message and wishes his body it will be delivered to her in accordance with the law covering the case. Otherwise it will be delivered to the State Anatomical Board for disposition.
